PREFACE

The Barden records contained in this book are the result of more than the third of a century of gathering and saving what material came to hand in pictures, letters, interviews and search in genealogical libraries. A little help was also obtained from genealogists in Boston and letters from England. All the pictures were saved that could be obtained by gift, loan or with the camera. It is a matter of regret that more cannot be here included.

The name, date and place records began in earnest in an all day interview in 1897 with my Mother's Father, E. S Barden at Richford, N. Y., who was then 87 years of age and unusually active in body and mind. When he saw me writing his statements in a book, he gave me, from memory, all the general facts herein of his grandfather and his father's family. The names, dates and places enabled me to verify much that he told and to trace back to the beginning of the Bardens in this country, early in the 17th century. The Bardens no doubt came from the Wharfe River valley near Yorkshire, England, where so many places bear the name, including Barden Tower. The migration to the new world was done under oppression and the emigrants left few traces of the old Barden lines.

There seem to be two principal lines of descent in the U. S. One from Richard Barden and the other from Wm. Barden and Deborah Barker of Middleboro, Mass., and two lesser lines, one George and one Brian Barden. Some think the two related, Wm. the son or nephew of Richard. Many descendants of Richard are settled about Pen Yan, N. Y. Both lines are mentioned in this record. The libraries searched for these records are the Boston genealogical library, the Newberry genealogical library of Chicago, and the Iowa Historical library at Des Moines. The history of Barden Tower may be found in the Encyclopedia Britanica and in the book of old English Towers. The vital statistics of Lee, Mass., give the births of the Seth Barden children. All of the statements of Ezra Seth Barden 1812-1900 found later on record were substantially correct so his traditions are accepted as facts. The records of the present Middleboro Bardens were furnished by Sarah Scott Barden whose untiring help in this line is hereby gratefully acknowledged. The same is true of the group of Richard Barden descendants given in part by Merritt C. Barden of West Pawlet, Vt. He has been a most zealous helper in securing these records. Yates Co. N. Y. History also gives Barden data.

I would like to urge upon thinking people generally that they make and preserve the records of all the older members of their families for every old person carries a fund of family history that will be lost to their decendants if not made into a record of permanent form, and these records will be much sought after by future generations. The publishing of family records is a rather thankless task and a matter of expense because of the limited sales, but to my mind a better tribute of honor and respect than shafts of marble. Hence this labor of love and devotion that these records of the Barden pioneers may be handed down to succeeding generations.

Ames, Iowa, Dec. 1, 1927. EZRA CORNELIUS POTTER.

PIONEER RECORDS.

EZRA SETH BARDEN, 1810–1900, born at Lee, Mass., gave his father $322 for his time from 11 years old. He traveled with Brown's Circus from 11 years old until he was 20, auctioneer and peddler. He farmed for himself ever since. There was only one other sober man in the show. Seth was called "Deacon". He made a promise to his mother before going with the show not to swear, gamble or drink. All were kept through life. Gambling was the only temptation and it was fierce. The preachers he knew all gambled then.

He commenced housekeeping on Hiawatha or Big Island in the Susquehanna river in a log house three miles east of Owego, N. Y. First married when 21 years old at Ithaca, N. Y. Oct. 20, 1833, to Catherine Elizabeth Jackson who was second cousin of President Jackson and sat with the speakers as a relative during his campaign. Her lineage is from one of three Jackson brothers who came from Ireland, President Jackson's father settling in the Carolinas and one brother in Philadelphia and one in New York. Farm of 100 acres. Next April after marriage he traded his wedding suit for an ox and went in debt for another.

While getting out ship timber across the river two teams of oxen broke through the ice where the water was 40 feet deep. A flat boat near by served as a landing. Thirteen 100 lb. shoats which followed them plunged into the water and had to be pulled out. The oxen had to be rubbed down. The clothing froze on him and there was no fire in the house but all turned out well.

He remembered distinctly when his father and brother-in-law returned from the war of 1812. Remembered just how they looked when they came in dressed in their uniforms.

He paid one half of his brother's (Simeon) college bill,

He was healthy and strong until within four days of his death and died as he had often expressed a wish to go. He was staying with his son Frank and died of apoplexy January 4, 1900, about 5 p. m. at Rawson Hollow, N. Y. Buried in Highland Cemetery, at Richford, beside his four wives and two daughters.

The following section of an ancestral chart is included to illustrate an excellent method of keeping records. There are several forms one other being the Connecticut fan chart. This square form where each column is a generation and with available pictures inserted as above, is in the best position to see and understand. It may be noted that two Barden lines run beyond the chart limit and are turned above and below the line. The pictures and data in this book are the best obtainable by the author to date and it is hoped other data and pictures and corrections will be sent in to be inserted in future bindings, a limited number only being bound this year.

In the tracing of lineage each person has a number which is also the number for that person's family. To trace descent from any one find farther in the list, the family head with that number and then the descendant and so on down to the present. For ancestry go back each time from the family head to that number in the children's list. Take the family head number to the children's list again and so on to the emigrant ancestor.

Desdemona E. Barden taught one term of four months in Lisle road school 1859,, N. E. Owego, N. Y. for $2.50 per week and board around. In 1860 taught in the home upstairs. Had three brothers and three sisters and two others for pupils. A small fee only for the two outside pupils.

The numbers preceding the name refer to the serial number in regular order through the book; the numbers following the name are pages and the star before a number means a picture.

These three groups are reunions of the Ezra Seth Barden branch. The upper left group, the 1896 Reunion at Ed Barden's on the Finch Farm south of Richford, New York, shows E. S. Barden at the center of the group, seated. He is the one with white hair and beard. At his right is an older daughter, Mrs. Emily Howard, a leader in family gatherings and church affairs. About him in front are some of his grandchildren and great-grandchildren. At his left by the porch post wearing a full beard is his son-in-law, Rev. L. P. Howard.

Second row: May Barden, Will Barden, Claude Barden, Lillie Smith, Laura Geer, Jesse Lee Marsh, S. K. Marsh, Mary Barden, Lou Barden, Dr. Robert Smith, Edna Marsh, Daisy Smith and sister, Jess Geer, Rev. L. P. Howard, E. D. Barden, Sylvia Caldwell.
Third row: Minerva M., Emily Howard, E. S. Barden, Emily Marsh and baby Emily.
Fourth row: Harry Barden, Clarence Barden, Art and Geo. Caldwell, Ezra Wheeler.

The group at the upper-right is the 1921 gathering north of Owego, New York.

The bottom group, 1918, Marathon, N. Y., is arranged by families. E. S. Barden's picture is on the tree.

THE BARDEN STORY

(Read by Mrs. Harriet C. (Barden) Beals at a reunion of the Barden family on January 3rd, 1898)

"Barden Hills" may have a place in history as fixed as "Barden Tower" in old England, for these lands and these hills have been in the Barden name for nearly, or quite, two hundred years. A little of the Barden story may interest us here to-night.

301 William Barden, the first of a line that has made a name in Middleboro, was, it is supposed, one of a number of youths about fourteen years of age, of good habits, who was sent over here from England to be apprenticed to some useful trade and occupation. He came probably in June, 1638, and was apprenticed to Thomas Boardman, of Plymouth, to learn the trade of carpenter. On the 10th of January following, the court record says;--

"Whereas William Barden was the convenant servant of Thomas Boardman for the term of seaven years, now the said Thomas Boardman with the consent of the said William hath sould al his interest for the terme of years he should have served him unto John Barker, bricklayer, which are yet unexpired, vizt six yeares and a half from the first of December last past before the date hereof. And the said John Barker is to teach the said William Barden the trade of bricklayer, and in the end of his term to give him twenty bushels of Indian corne, two suites of apparell and an ewe goat lamb."

Whether he ever received the lamb or not, is not recorded but further records show that he subsequently married his master's daughter, probably the youngest one, thus, taking on the lamb from the family flock.

William Barden's name is among those in Marshfield, in 1643, who were able to bear arms. After his apprenticeship he lived some time in Concord, Mass., and then removed to Dunbury. He married Deborah, daughter of John Barker, of Marshfield, February 1660, and soon after removed to Barnstable, where several of their children were born. In October 31, 1666, John Bates and William Barden were fined 3s. 4d. for breaking the King's peace by striking each other. Barden was drunk at the time and was fined 5s. besides and Bates was ordered by the court to pay Barden 20s. for abusing him.

John Barker, Deborah's father, was a ferryman at Jone's River in Kingston, and was drowned December 14, 1652. His wife was Anna, daughter of John Williams of Scituate. At his death, his three daughters were to have ten pounds apiece. John Williams, Deborah's uncle, was appointed her guardian and she went to Scituate to live with him. October 6, 1659, John Williams appeared in court to answer the complaint of "Robert Barker and Deborah Barker, the daughter of John Barker, deceased, for that he, the said Ensign Williams, was accused to have misused the said Deborah Barker, she having lived with him: he producing many evidences to clear his innocency in the premises, the court could not find the accusation to becalled true: notwithstanding, upon some considerations, ordered that the said Deborah Barker should not be returned againe unto her said unkell Ensign Williams, but should chuse her guardian, and either live with him or be disposed of to some other honest man to serve as he should think meet: at which time the said Deborah made choice of Thomas Bird of Scituate."

There were still further troubles with regard to her property and guardianship till her marriage with William Barden, who receipted for her share of property to Abraham Blush who became her mother's second husband and had the settlement of the Barker property.

William and Deborah Barden lived in Barnstable something more than twenty years, and probably moved to Middleboro about 1683, as that was the date of her dismissal from the Barnstable church to join the church in Middleboro. There was no church organization in Middleboro at that time; but, at the organization of the First Church in 1694, she was among the first members, being recorded as "Widow Deborah Barden."

William Barden died in 1692, or early 1693. He made a will but it was not dated or signed. It speaks of his being "in a weake and low condition by reason of sickness, and, not knowing how God may deal with me, yet, while I have my perfect senses and understanding, am now minded to make my last will and testament." The will was written by Samuel Fuller, who seemed to serve the people of Middleboro as both minister and magistrate, and who, at the organization of the first church in 1694, became its first pastor. The unsigned will was taken to court March 22, 1692/3 and Samuel Fuller "testified that in ye time of ye last sickness of ye above named William Barden, who then declared the same to be his last will and testament. David Wood also testified that he was present at the time." The will was not admitted to probate, but, his widow, Deborah, was appointed administratrix of his estate. The inventory, as made at the appraisal of the estate, was as follows:-

Middlebury, September 14, (date torn out)

A true inventory of the estate of William Barden, deceased.

taken by us whose names are under written,

John Allyn.
Ephriam Tincom.

The property remained undivided for twenty years, until 1713, when commissioners were chosen to make a division among the thirteen children, or their heirs, which division is duly recorded.

Deborah made her will May, 13, 1721, and, as the will was presented for probate March 7, 1722, she must have died between these dates.

Without pursuing the matter further, I will briefly sketch the Barden line of descent, as follows:-

1st. Generation - William Barden, probably born in England about 1624. His History is there noted. By his wife Deborah, he had children: Mercy, Deborah, John, Stephen, Abraham, Joseph, Anna, Sarah, Mary, Content, Benjamin, William, Nathaniel. This may not be the exact order of their birth.

2nd Gen. - John, son of William (1) born March 17, 1667/8, married to Mary Parker August 25, 1703. They had children: John Ichabod, Deborah and perhaps others.

3rd Gen. - Ichabod, son of John (2) born December 18, 1705, married to Bethiah Wheat May 10, 1726. They had children: Bethiah, Mary, John, Jonsidon, Deliverance, Deborah, Rodolphus, Ichabod, Solomon, and perhaps others.

4th Gen. - John, son of Ichabod (3) born February 14, 1740, married to Hannah Chamberlain on September 28, 1775. She was a daughter of Philip Chamberlain of Plymptom, and her mother's name was Mehitable Scott, a daughter of Joseph Scott of Boston. They had children:

Mehitable, born Aug. 20, 1776, married Abial Pierce.
John, born July 29, 1778, married widow Mercy Vaughan.
Scot, born June 3, 1782, married Sally Macomber.
Sally, born March 21, 1783, died October 15, 1806.
Edward, born July 29, 1790, married Patience B. Lovell.
Hannah, born Aug. 22, 1792, married Elias Cushman.
Orion, born May 16, 1795, died Jan. 3, 1797.

5th Gen. - Scott, son of John (4) born June 3, 1782, married to Sally Macomber June 18, 1800. They had children:

Joseph Scott, born March 13, 1813, according to the record, although he always claimed the 17th as his birthday.
Thomas Franklin, born Jan. 18, 1815.
John Chamberlain, born March 22, 1817.
Sarah Scott.
Stephen.

6th Gen. - Joseph Scott, son of Scott (5) married Harriet B. Churchill on Oct. 9, 1833.

Thomas Franklin, son of Scott (5) married Eleanor H. Tinkham June 25, 1837.

John Chamberlain, son of Scott (5) married Catherine S. Martin November 24, 1839.

Sarah Scott, daughter of Scott (5) married Sylvanus R. Fuller.

The seventh, eighth and ninth generations are represented by persons now living and mostly here to-night and I leave you to find the dates of your own births and marriages.

John, who married Hannah Chamberlain, seems to have served three different enlistments in the Revolutionary army. According to the record, he marched to Howlands Ferry, R.I. on the alarm of December 8, 1776, served twelve days; served from September 6th to 12th, 1778, six days having marched from Middleboro to Dartmouth on an alarm; marched to R.I. on the alarm of August 1, 1780, served nine days.

There is good reason to believe that the "Old House" has been in the Barden family since the the time of William and Deborah. If so, it is one of the very few pieces of property that has remained in one family for more than two hundred years.

Barden Hills Pg. 302
History of town of Middleboro, Mass. by Thos. Weston 1906

"Across the river east of the Four Corners is the neighborhood long known as Barden Hills. The old Barden house and lands have been in the family for a little more than two centuries. Probably all of the Bardens (or Burdens) in this country, and some of the Bordens have descended from Wm. Barden, who came over in the year 1638 and was apprenticed for seven years to Thomas Boardman to learn the trade of carpenter. After about seven months of service, his apprenticeship for the remainder of the time was transferred to John Barker of Marshfield, for him to become a bricklayer. After completing his service he lived in different places until about 1660 when he married Deborah Barker, his master's daughter, and settled in Barnstable, and in 1664 they moved to Middleboro. She was one of the original members of the First Church. He became an owner in nearly all of the purchases made from the Indians in town, and twenty years after his death, which occurred in 1692 his estate was divided among thirteen children."

Over the principal doorway is the following inscription:

"This Barden Tower was repayred by the Ladie Anne Clifford, Countesse Dowager of Pembroke, Dorset, and Mon'gomery; Baronesse Clifford Westmoreland and Vesele Lady of th Honor of Skipton in Craven, and High Sheriffesse by Inh ritance of the counties of Westmerland in the y ares 1658 and1659, after itt had layne ruinous ever since 1582, wh n her mother then lay in ill and was greate with child with hep (her?) till nowe that itt was repayred by the sayd Lady.

The first meeting house sold at auction, Aug. 1701, for 5 pounds, 2 shillings, Deborah (Barker) Barden, a charter member. The records show May 29, 1700, "The meeting house in Middlebery was raised." Sold and taken down to build a dwelling 1754 or 1755. Feb. 1745 a new meeting house was planned and deed for two acres of land recorded June 9, 1645.

The third meeting house was built on the Upper Green in 1745 and remained till 1829, a part of the foundation still showing east of the present building which was built in 1827, dedicated Jan. 1, 1829 by Rev. Lyman Beecher father of Henry Ward Beecher as shown at the lower right corner.

These churches were the scenes of many noted persons attendance and at one time the minister went as chaplain and 35 of his members enlisted in the Rev. War and a company was raised. Daniel Webster said about 1830, "I consider this the ideal of rural church architecture, one of the finest church edifices in the country." Built at a cost of from $12,000 to $13,000 from the sale of pews.

Copied by T. Armstrong, Editor Malton Messenger at Malton, England, May 24, 1914 from "Rambles by Yorkshire Rivers", by George Radford, M. A. From chapter on Wharfedale-West Riding of Yorkshire, England

We now reach the Evergreens of Barden's lowly ancestors. There once might have been seen and heard the stir and activity of a nobleman's dwelling, Hence issues in days gone by many a hunting party equipped to chase the stag and possibly the fierce wild boar.

The Tower was built by Hon. Henry Clifford and was his favorite residence partly on account of its nearness to Bolton.

We can quite understand how a man who had been brought up as a Shepherd in order to gain recognition and procure safety would prefer a quiet rural life, combined with quiet contemplative studies, to his experience of a court. However, the "Shepherd Lord" appears to have done poor service as a soldier in his later years.

The Secluded Tower was sacred and congenial to later Cliffords who had risen to be Earls of Cumberland, and it was left for that notable woman Lady Ann Clifford, who was as obstinate in her lawsuits as some living in present days, to rebuild the dilapidated dwelling. We shall be more particularly in the presence of Countess Anne when we visit Skipton, the Lordship to which Barden Tower belonged.

The precincts are not altogether uninhabited, although the Tower is in ruins, and the visitor will learn that the (lerters ?) have been on the spot for 700 years. It is probable most of them were at Barden in the 12th century. They were not far away a few centuries before, and no doubt the Normans "fined them here when they comed," as the farmer hinted. But whatever doubt there may be regarding the past, there can be little doubt but that from new energy and thrift they will be as proud when another 700 years have rolled away.

The farmers in the neighborhood of Barden pay barely a crown ($4.84) an acre for the moorland, and as high as two guineas ($10.00) for the best land.

Item. The book is not dated.

M. C. Barden corresponded with an old man, John Burden of Headcorn, Kent County, England, many years ago who asked him to come there and make his home without cost. He said that Barden and Borden was a corruption of Burden. To this M C B took exceptions, explaining all about the Yorkshire Bardens—that they were there before William the Conqueror came, that the estate was confiscated. Clifford, one of William's officers, occupied Tower chapel and seat on the river wharf and the highland moor off towards Skipton was occupied by Lambert another officer in William's army Both fought at Hastings under William the Conqueror and the name BARDEN claimed priority. This John Burden was then over 94 years old and a bright old man. Now we may presume the Bardens of the Wharfdale were scattered to the four winds of heaven.

More than 50 years ago I read a letter from the "Iron King" Burden of Troy, N. Y., to my great uncle John Barden' (b 1807, No. 521). This Burden said he was born in Scotland, he became very wealthy, and in his old age wanted to to visit the land of his birth and look up Barden ancestry. He found in Scotland that they came there from France where the name was spelled Bourden, and from England where the first spelling was Barden.

There is an Irish branch and they no doubt when William came went into Ireland. Their line is Brian Barden of Hills, Ireland, who had children, Bridget, Ann, Mary, Julia, Betsey, Michael and Simon who was the grandfather of Iva E. Barden a school teacher at Pittsfield Mass. 1919. All of the above children of Brian Barden came to America except Michael who also had a Bridget.

The Bridget who came here married Tutte who had a daughter Mary Tutte who became the mother of Joseph Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, and we think that the line may be followed back into Yorkshire, England, as the James Hopkins first where M. C. Barden now lives followed him into Antrim, Ireland and to England where they were in 1680. This family came in 1722, evidence that the family are English.

From Robert Borden, Prime Minister Canada, 1918.

1. Henry Borden born at Borden, Kent, about 1360-80. He removed to Headcorn and the following are all Headcorn Bordens :

2. Thomas Borden, died before 1469. He fought under Jack Cady against the government, sentenced to death but pardoned. Jack Cady was beheaded.

3. John Borden born about 1430, died after 1469 the date of his will.

4. William Borden died about 1531.

5. Edmund Borden died about 1539.

6. William Borden died about 1557.

7. Thomas Borden died about 1562.

8. Mathew Borden died about 1620, the father of Richard (1) Borden emigrant, born 1595, married 1624 Joan Fowle sister of Francis of Gourdhurst.

The above Richard (1) and family are from the vicar at Headcorn, Kent County, England, to M. C. Barden. The Newport, R. I. Quaker records give children born in Rhode Island and record Mathew was the first white child born in Rhode Island.

BARDEN TOWER, ENGLAND

From Encyclopedia Britannicia, Vol 28, page 935.

"Antiquities—Ancient Castles of Yorkshire retain many interesting examples . Barden Tower picturesquely situated in upper Wharfdale was built by Henry de Clifford (d 1523), called the Shepherd Lord from the story that he was brought up as a shepherd. He was a student of astronomy and astrology.

YORKSHIRE BARDEN TOWER

Castles of England by Sir James D. Mackenzie. Published 1896 by Macmillan Company.

In the neighborhood of Bolton Priory, where the Strid comes down from the high moors, in the old forest of the Cliffords, is this ancient building. Originally one of the six lodges with which the Barden forest was provided, it was chosen for a retreat by Henry Clifford, the shepherd Lord of Skipton, whose story is noticed under Skipton. It is probable that during his twenty-four years of exile from society, he came frequently into this district and got to love the place, so that when the accession of Henry VII enabled him to return to his property, he rebuilt this house, to form for himself a quiet home for study and retirement. And here he generally dwelt, resorting to the company of the monks of Bolton for assistance in his favorite studies of astrology and alchemy. After his death the tower was neglected, and so in the time of Countess Anne had become ruinous, and was repaired and rebuilt by her in 1659. Whitaker saw it entire, he says, in 1884, but it is once more a ruin. It is a large square building, and has a chapel attached. The walls are strong but it does not seem more capable of defense than an ordinary peel tower would be.

BAEDEKER'S GREAT BRITAIN

Published 1901

Bolton Abbey lies at the foot of the most picturesque part of Wharfdale, the finest of the Yorkshire 'dales' and one of the most beautiful valleys. . . . It's story is told by Wordsworth in the 'Force of Prayer'. . . At Pembroke Seat we cross the little Barden Beck and pass under (5 min) a parapeted aqueduct across the Wharfe. A walk of 12 minutes more brings us to Barden Bridge, about three and one-half miles from Bolton Abbey. . . . To reach Barden Tower, a ruined castle of the Clifford family, dating from about 1485, we ascend the road to the left for three or four minute. Adjacent is an old chapel (restored in 1860); and simple refreshments may be obtained in the quaint old kitchen of the adjoining farm-house (perhaps the chaplain's residence). About one-half mile to the north is Gill Beck waterfall. From Barden Bridge to Bolton Abbey by the left bank of the Wharfe, three and one half miles. Cross the Wharfe river by stepping stones, 56 in number, or the adjacent bridge, we recross the stream to Bolton Abbey. (p. 439)

The prettiest and most interesting part of Wharfedale is that between Bolton Abbey and Barden which may be easily visited in one day from Ilkley via Bolton Abbey station R. R. from Leeds. (p. 448)

Barden Tower near York, England, built by Henry Clifford the Shepherd Lord. The Poet Wordsworth wrote— "Did not in wars delight
This Clifford wished for worthier might,
Most happy in the shy recess
Of Barden's lowly quietness."

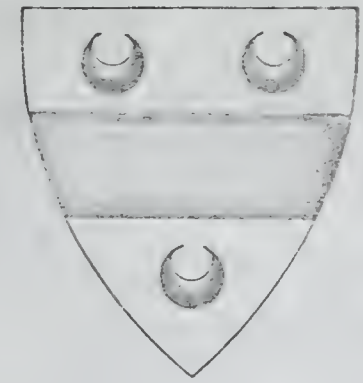
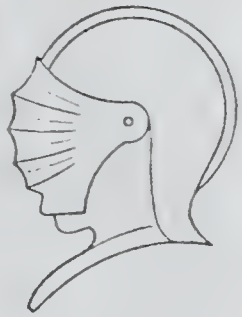
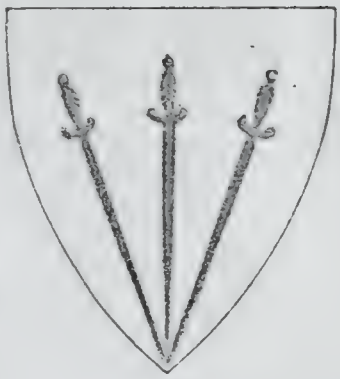
GENERAL ARMORY - BURKE 1884 - PAGE 47

BARDE -







Ar, a fesse between, Three Cresents, az

Ar, Three Swords conjoined in point, gu

Top, Barden Arms—

The shield at the left has blue crescents and fesse on a silver shield as recorded.

The one on the right has three red swords conjoined in a point, meaning Justice, the idea probably being that the owner will shed blood in the defense of right.

There is also recorded as Barden Arms "A Demi youth with a broken ax over his shoulder".

Center, left—Barden tower and Wharf river near Yorkshire, England, below it a map of the surrounding country, Barden Tower at center above Bolton abbey. See pages 35, 39, 40, 54.

Center—Patience Barrows (Lovell) Barden, wife of Edward Barden No. 340. She was born 1794, died 1866. Edward, center right, born 1789, died 1859. All in Middleboro, Mass.

Bottom, center—Large slab records Scott Barden No. 338, born 1782, died 1863, left, his wife Sally Macomber, beyond, Scott's father John Barden No. 329 born 1740 and his wife Hannah Chamberlain. This cemetery is a large one centuries old and is near the church shown page 40.

Tower right corner—

Grave of Ezra Seth Barden No. 10, born 1812, died 1900, Richford, N. Y. The slab marks the grave of his first wife Catherine Elizabeth Jackson, mother of his twelve children. The smaller stones mark the graves of his second wife Sophia Corbin born 1841, married 1864, killed in a runaway 1865. Third wife Anna Jane Garretson born 1830, married 1867, died 1867. Fourth wife Mrs. Lura L. Belcher No. 11, born 1813, married 1870, died 1890. His daughter's headstones, Ellen and May Garretson Caldwell No. 13 are also shown.

NOTE—It is suggested by the author that all Bardens who wish, of whatever spelling of the name, meet on the Fourth of July each year at Middleboro, Mass. church lawn as shown on page 40, and on July 4th, 1930, have a grand rally from all over the U. S. and Canada, for mutual information, fellowship and visitation of the ancestral places.

HOME OF OUR FATHERS.

Oh, the old New England hills
And the woodlands and the rills !
  How the heart with rapture thrills
With the merry song of birds,
Sweeter far than any words,
  Lifting hearts up to the clouds.

Here we see the tall church spire,
All alight with golden fire,
  From the sun now mounting higher
Oer the trees of living green :
Setting forth the sacred scene
  Where we love to come again.

Where our fathers came of yore,
Singing anthems o'er and o'er
  As they worship and adore
God, who brought them from afar,
Under Heaven's guiding star,
  To the fair New England shore.

Oh, those deeds of olden days,
Lift our hearts in ardent praise
  As our rev'rent voices raise
In the living church of God ;
Where our brave forefathers trod,
  Fighting famine, foe and flood.

Thus, our tribute now we bring
To these foes of tyrant king ;
  And we'll to their precepts cling
In this heritage of old,
Better far than shining gold,
  Bringing blessings yet untold.
